Daily Pattern for Home Use

BY ANNE ADAMS

SLENDER LINES DISTINGUISH FROCK THE MATRON WILL WANT TO MAKE

A frock that every woman will envy when she sees its slimming flattery is Pattern 4194, another of Anne Adams' up-to-the-minute designs. Ordinary occasions become gala events once you've donned its charming lines and smart simplicity. You'll love the interesting yoke-panel effect and novelty sleeves with their deep slash—all topped by the most youthifying of collars. See how the trim skirt boasts deep free-action pleats that swing with graceful motion when you walk. And so easy to make is Pattern 4194 that you'll have it all finished before you know it! You've wide choice of fabric, but a soft wool crepe or monotone crepe would fill the bill to perfection!

Pattern 4194 is available in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3 [illegible] yards 39 inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly size, name, address and style number.

Send for your copy of the Anne Adams Pattern Book! Every page is filled with fascinating styles in afternoon frocks—gay sports togs—stunning party clothes! Slimming styles for matrons. Budget-saving patterns for grown-ups and [illegible]. Easy patterns that invite beginners. Fabric suggestions and accessory hints. Book fifteen cents. Twenty-five cents for both when ordered together. Order at once.

CITY ASKS NEW TRIAL IN FIREMAN'S CASE

Action Taken as Protection in Case Appeal to Higher Court Is Decided

The city of Marion today filed a motion for a new trial of the suit brought by Burdette E. Bindley city fireman for wage cuts in 1931 and 1932 and for back salary for a two year period during which he was dismissed from the department. A common pleas court jury Wednesday awarded Bindley a total of $1,552.57 for the back salary but denied him any reimbursement for the wage cuts.

Ralph L. Carhart city solicitor said the motion was for the protection of the city in event the city wished at any time to carry the case to the higher courts. Following the announcement of the jury's verdict Thursday, Mr. Carhart said city officials had received the verdict with satisfaction and will consider any future action in the matter [illegible] Monday night.

A motion for a new trial was also filed by Mr. Carhart for the Standard Accident Insurance Co. of Detroit party defendant with the city. The company furnished the appeal bond for the city to carry a previous suit in which Bindley [illegible] the court of appeals. It was in the previous suit that Bindley was ordered reinstated as a fireman by a Marion county jury whose verdict was upheld by the appellate court. Of the $1,552.57 judgment Wednesday $493.76 was jointly against the city and the company for salary Bindley lost while the previous [illegible] was carried to the appellate court. The remainder of the judgment was against the city alone for salary during the period of dismissal. Bindley had asked a total of more than $1,000.

Among grounds on which the city based its motion for a new trial was the contention that the amount of the judgment was too large.

Marionettes Perform Here for Needy Pupils Today

MARIONETTES IN ACTION

Above are two of the more than 100 large marionettes in the famous Olvera Street Marionette show from Los Angeles which is being given today at Central Junior High school under the auspices of the public schools.

Large audiences of children saw the first two performances at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. and an equally large crowd of adults is expected for a special performance tonight at 7:30.

Proceeds from the show will be used for welfare work in the schools. Tickets may be purchased at the door tonight.

Marionettes modeled after movie stars presented the immortal Mark Twain story "Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer" and a gaily circus this morning and afternoon employing unusual lighting effects, gorgeous costuming and colorful scenes.

Tonight's performance which has been arranged particularly for adults will feature the Mark Twain story and a [illegible] night act Continental Variety Show carrying the audience from gay Broadway to a Harlem jingle and back again to a movie set on Olvera street in Los Angeles in which Professor Einstein directs the great Garbo and Mae West comes in to steal the scene.

In "Huck Finn and Tom Sawyer" some of the movie stars reproduced in miniature are Jackie Cooper, Tom Sawyer, Mickey Rooney, Edna May Oliver, Stepin Fetchit and Shirley Smith.

The Olvera Street Marionettes are billed as America's Largest Marionette show. It is the first professional show of its kind to come to Marion in [illegible]

TEXT OF EDWARD'S FAREWELL SPEECH

should have never allowed any such issue to arise.

Ever since I was Prince of Wales and later on when I occupied the throne I have been treated with the greatest kindness by all classes of the people wherever I have lived or journeyed throughout the empire. For that I am very grateful. I now quit altogether public affairs and I lay down my burden.

It may be some time before I return to my native land but I shall always follow the fortunes of the [illegible] and empire with [illegible] and if at any time in the future I can be found of [illegible] to his majesty in a private station I shall not fail.

And now we all have a new king. I wish him and you his people happiness and prosperity with all my heart. God bless you all. God save the king.

FRENCH GREET SHIP CARRYING EDWARD

Portsmouth saw the former king take leave of his country. Civic and police authorities usually informed when a member of the royal family visits the port were not told Edward was coming.

He boarded the Fury which last July took him to France for the unveiling of the Canadian war memorial at Vimy Ridge after bidding his peoples goodby in the globe encircling talk.

More than 500 000 000 were estimated to have listened to Edward's farewell address. The broadcast and the departure climaxed a dramatic day.

Early in the afternoon parliament passed a law legalizing his departure and the accession of his brother.

Queen Mary his widowed mother issued a prayerful plea that he be remembered gratefully and full loyalty be pledged to his successor.

Family Dines Together

The royal family dined together for a round of farewells at Windsor castle the scene of the radio goodby.

God bless you all! God save the king.

Thus Edward his voice husky concluded his historic broadcast as his mother stood beside him at the microphone.

You must believe me he said when I tell you that I have found it impossible to carry the heavy burden of responsibility and to discharge my duties as king as I would wish to do without the help and support of the woman I love.

His decision to quit throne for life with Mrs Simpson was mine and mine alone he added for

This was a thing I had to judge entirely for myself.

The other person most nearly concerned has tried up to the last to persuade me to take a different course.

Voice Breaks Once

His voice broke only once during the address.

This was when he referred to the sympathetic comfort of my mother and my family. He spoke firmly and calmly while paying tribute to the attitude of Premier Stanley Baldwin and pledging allegiance to his brother George VI the next wearer of the crown.

I now quit altogether public affairs and I lay down my burden said the former king after revealing with a touch of sadness that his life had been empty in one respect.

He (George VI) has one blessing declared Edward enjoyed by so many of you and not bestowed on me a happy home with his wife and children.

He disposed of reports that he never would return to England with

It may be some time before I return to my native land but I shall always follow the fortunes of the British race and empire with profound interest and if at any time in the future I can be found of service to his majesty in a private station I shall not fail.

Edward dressed in dinner jacket and looking tired and worn then left the castle with his mother saddened and weary from the strain of recent days.

Drive to Fort

They drove to Fort Belvedere where Edward summoned all the staff and bade them goodby. Then he left for Portsmouth.

Queen Mary urged the world to hold for Edward a grateful remembrance in your hearts in a simple statement disclosing the depths of her love and her own ordeal in the decision of her eldest born to quit throne and country.

I know you will realize what it has cost him to come to this decision she said.

I commend to you his brother summoned so unexpectedly and in circumstances so painful to take his place.

Her own feelings she revealed thus

I need not speak of the distress which fills a mother's heart when I think that my dear son has deemed it to be his duty to lay down his charge and that the reign which had begun with so much hope and promise has so suddenly ended.

"FORGOTTEN" MAN

Defenders Call Out Reserves To Block New Thrust from Two Sides

By The Associated Press

MADRID, Dec 12 Ten persons were killed today and at least a score wounded as insurgent batteries threw round after round of shrapnel into the center of the Spanish capital.

The government ordered out its militia reserves to stem a double edged insurgent thrust.

While Fascist battalions struck from the northeast and the west a Socialist communique listed important victories far to the north in Asturias province on the Bay of Biscay.

A new offensive the government said captured several towns and carried the Socialist forces against the insurgent stronghold of Oviedo almost surrounding the city.

Fascists suffered heavy losses the communique declared.

WAR'S ISOLATION AIM OF LEAGUE COUNCIL

Move Pressed To Bar Outside Help and Promote Mediation in Spanish Conflict

By The Associated Press

GENEVA Dec 12—After a stormy secret session the League of Nations council agreed today on a resolution designed to isolate the Spanish civil war.

The resolution was understood to contain four principal points:

1 Recognition of the Valencia Socialist government's appeal to the league to recognize the war as a danger to international peace.

2 Support of a more rigid system of international control to prevent foreign assistance to either warring faction.

3 Approval of Franco-British suggestions for mediation.

4 Recommendation of cooperative action by the league and other international bodies including the London non-intervention committee in attempting to halt the conflict.

Boys' Effort To Help Crippled Pal Succeeds

Offers of Assistance To Help Buy Wheel Chair Pour in on Lads

Two Lincoln avenue boys who started a Christmas fund drive all their own this week to buy a wheel chair for a crippled friend believed today there is nothing as catching as the Christmas spirit. Telephone calls letters and post cards have poured in telling of offers of financial help.

The boys are Bill Glimpse 12 of 171 Lincoln avenue and Jack Hodges 13 of 162 Lincoln avenue. Monday they begged to be excused from study hall at Vernon Heights school where they are both seventh grade pupils and visited Forest Lawn school which their friend had attended before he became ill about a year ago. They made speeches in every room about the boy and how much he needed a wheel chair because he can't walk anymore.

Thursday they returned to Forest Lawn and collected $9.66 from the children toward the $20 which they believe will purchase a wheel chair. That night a story of their work appeared in The Star and after supper the telephone began to ring. This morning they had raised their fund to $14 and had an offer from a generous woman on East Center street to give them the balance of the cost of the chair. A church society other boys and girls and many families have offered help the boys said.

About 15 persons have called up offering the boys all the old papers and rags they can sell Bill and Jack said they expected to work all day collecting the bundles and selling them.

In addition a letter came from Upper Sandusky offering a wheel chair at a moderate price and the boys are going up to look it over next week. The wheel chair they need is a special kind one which permits the crippled boy's leg to rest straight.

The boys parents are Mr and Mrs Ed Glimpse and Mr and Mrs Emmett Hodges.

BUSINESS PROPOSES U. S. WAGE CONTROL

Offers Fair Competition Act Containing Several Main Features of Old NRA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON Dec 12 — The council for industrial progress composed of representatives of business and organized labor struck out today for reassertion of federal power over wages hours and trade practices in industry.

It proposes a fair competition act containing several principal features of the invalidated NRA.

John C Paine of New York chairman of the council's management group said the organization represents businesses that employ close to 60 per cent of the employables in the country.

The council decided late yesterday to encourage voluntary reduction of hours and increased wages for labor he added and recommended a census of both the unemployed and the employed with government funds.

Mindful of the unanimous supreme court decision against NRA the council expressed confidence that much if not all of business could be brought within congressional jurisdiction.

Don't Let Fire Mar Holiday, Official Warns

Prevent holiday tragedies is the watchword issued by Fire Chief T J McFarland to Marion residents who are already on the threshold of one of the busiest and happiest Christmas seasons in recent years "It's better to be safe than sorry" Chief McFarland said in pointing out a list of things that should or shouldn't be done to prevent yuletide fires

The chief is always on the job when it comes to preventing fires or putting them out after they start. Right now he is concerned about Christmas. If he can help it, there is going to be no reason or excuse for a Christmas fire Here is the list of pointers he has compiled which if given constant attention should prevent fires

If you must have a candle in the window Christmas eve be sure it's an electric one— that is safe

Metal tinsel flake asbestos and powdered mica are best for snow effects and eliminate the danger of inflammable paper clippings or cotton

Smokers should exercise care with matches and smoking materials while near trees and decorations and trees should not be illuminated with wax candles Electric light assemblies are safer but a spotlight focussed upon the tree is the safest method of all

Cheap electrical play things should be forbidden and toys requiring alcohol gasoline or kerosene should be avoided

If Santa Claus is present he should be persuaded to avoid a long beard and should keep away from open lights and fires

If any one's clothing does catch fire the victim should be promptly rolled in a rug or woolen blanket to smother the flames

Merchants should be especially cautious in keeping their places of business free from rubbish and paper accumulations

Remember that cautiousness pays big dividends and that only a keen appreciation of common dangers can effectively lessen loss of life and property by fire Chief McFarland said in summing up his plea to Marionites

STORE EMPLOYES WILL GET BONUS

Kresge Will Reward 130 Workers in Marion

One hundred and thirty employes in the two Marion stores of the S S Kresge Co will share in holiday bonuses to be paid Dec 21 it was announced today by the manager

Santa and the Viking

BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: Santa has sent two toys along with Nils, a Viking, to rescue his daughter who is imprisoned by the Ice Queen. Mister, the pup, has decided to invade the Queen's palace all alone.

* * *

CHAPTER SIX
Mister in Danger

MISTER the woolly pup was so brave he never stopped to think he might be harmed in the Ice Queen's palace. He rushed down the snowy hill outside the palace leaving Nils and Captain Buttons behind him.

His fat paws scuffed up the snow as he ran through the great gates of the castle and on into the long chilly hall. But as he drew near the throne room he grew a little more cautious. He could hear the queen's winds moaning and he crouched down and crawled quietly to the throne room door.

But when he saw those long gray winds of the queen racing around the room he lost all his caution. He hopped into the air and caught one between his little white teeth. The wind howled but Mister hung onto him.

Fairy Queen to the Rescue

Of course the other winds came to the rescue of their brother and they tossed Mister high against the arched ceiling and then out through the chimney into the cold gray sky.

"Foo-oo drop him hard on the ice" shouted the wind in the lead. "Wheeee" answered the other winds. Mister would have been badly hurt if the Fairy Queen hadn't come to his rescue. She was still riding quietly on Nils' helmet. But she saw Mister tossed about by the winds and she flew to Nils' shoulder and whispered softly into his ear "Look up!"

Nils did look up, and there to his astonishment was Mister falling through the snow filled air like a whirling ball. Nils jumped to his feet stumbled through the snow and caught the pup in his strong arms.

He Dropped the Limp Wind

"Gr r" said the pup still ready to fight. He unclenched his teeth and the limp wind he had bitten fell to the ground like a gray rag.

"This is what's in there" said Mister to Nils.

"Good heavens" said Nils "Did you see my daughter?"

"Rrr yes" said Mister. "But I never go near her."

Then the Fairy Queen decided to make herself known to Nils. She flew to his hand and said "Now I am going to help you. I am the Queen of Fairies."

"But little lady" said Nils very much surprised. "You are so tiny you'll be broken to bits in there."

"Not me" laughed the Queen. "Just watch." She flew off to the palace and disappeared through the gates.

Monday: The Fairy Queen's trick.

Nils jumped to his feet and caught the pup.

Cut in Hours Equivalent to Pay Raise from 50 to 60 Cents an Hour

By the Associated Press

Cleveland WPA laborers looked forward today to hour reductions effective Dec 21 equivalent to a pay raise from 50 to 60 cents an hour

Joseph W Alexander Cuyahoga county WPA director said the increase would affect approximately 20,000 workers Their hours will be reduced from 121 to 101 a month

Pickets were formed at Akron round the Law plant of makers of rubber patching materials Sherman H Dalrymple international president of the United Rubber Workers said all of the 117 workers belonged to his union and are demanding higher wages

Deadlocks continued on other Ohio strike fronts including two more at Akron where no negotiations were reported in disputes affecting the Federman Co department store and the Hardware & Supply Co store

At Cincinnati Joseph H Hoskins agent for 37 commission houses said new year action probably would be taken against unions in a strike of truck helpers and sales

Eighteen hundred employes of the Hayes Motors Corp plant at Canton remained idle

Children Will Take Part in Ceremony at Temple Quarters Here

Children of the Marion Congregation of Israel will present a lighting service Sunday at 11 a m at the temple room in the Marion National bank building in observance of the festival of Hanukkah

Mr George G Kleinmuler of South Stine street wrote the [illegible] tee and will be in charge

Commonly known as the feast of [illegible] and Lights Hanukkah is a festival in which is [illegible] the [illegible] Hebrew martyrdom and heroism in the early days when Jews were forced to struggle for religious liberty

[illegible] will take part in the [illegible] Betty L [illegible] Fred Ruth [illegible] Brown [illegible] Grace Johnson [illegible] Teitlebaum George [illegible] Tertram Freed Jimmy [illegible] Warren [illegible] and Guenther Turle

During the [illegible] century before the Christian era the Syrian Greek monarch Antiochus Epiphanes decided to establish a Greek state with one culture one language and one religion throughout his kingdom [illegible] to worship of Zeus came from an unexpected quarter Weak and politically insignificant Judea refused to submit to the setting up of a heathen idol in the temple on Mt Zion

In Modin a small town south of Jerusalem an aged priest named Mattathias rallied a small band of devoted pietists who stood against the advancing flood of Hellenism defied the emperor's officers and began a struggle which eventually was to reestablish an independent Jewish Kingdom

This incident in Jewish history is the basis for the observance of the festival of Hanukkah

"Evil Speaking"

A SERMONETTE

BY REV J E DAVIDSON

Pastor, the First Church of the Nazarene

EVIL speaking is generally too lightly regarded The Bible pictures it as one of the deadliest sins In referring to certain persons who were careless with their tongues David said [illegible] of asps is under [illegible] lips Through his Apostle James God gives the [illegible] that the tongue is [illegible] the course of nature and it is set on fire of hell

It may be enlightening to know how God regards evil [illegible] in relation to morals [illegible] In Leviticus we read [illegible] go up and down [illegible] among the people [illegible] answer to the questions Lord who shall abide in thy tabernacle Who shall dwell in thy holy hill? The psalmist writes under divine inspiration He that backbiteth not with his tongue [illegible] The scandalizing tongue wielder will undoubtedly be excluded from the sainted [illegible] For in the epistle of James we read If a man seem to be religious and bridleth not his tongue this man's religion is vain There is only one prayer for the [illegible] to pray who spread evil surmises and that is Lord be merciful to me a sinner

The strange thing about the one who soweth discord among the brethren is that the heaviest blow falls upon his own head While his knife cuts both ways the deepest wound is inflicted upon himself Of course evil talk tends to malign the reputation of the one spoken about yet if the speech is false the dart in truth [illegible] The tragedy [illegible] the fact that [illegible] have the [illegible] be influenced [illegible] alone who knows [illegible] can determine the [illegible]

Relative to evil speaking [illegible] Van Dyke says [illegible] dying out among [illegible] [illegible] lightly [illegible] You might find yourself [illegible] difficulty if you tried [illegible] of friends to [illegible] the principal [illegible] would [illegible] neighbor [illegible] would refuse [illegible] and [illegible] would probably be [illegible] to the nearest [illegible] asylum But if you wish [illegible] character at [illegible] statement or [illegible] reputation [illegible] you will find [illegible] almost incr[illegible] [illegible] cruel [illegible] of the wicked [illegible] indiscriminate [illegible] gossip How quick [illegible] to take up [illegible] and roll it as a raw morsel [illegible] their tongues and [illegible] their neighbors [illegible] friends I remember that [illegible] think [illegible] much less repeat it

There are two good rules that should be written upon every heart Never believe anything bad about anybody unless you positively know that it is true Never tell even that unless you feel that it is absolutely necessary and that God is listening while you tell it

PALACE SHOW HAS UNUSUAL FEATURES

"SWING SHOW CHORINES"

An unusual type of stage entertainment will be offered Palace theater patrons Thursday and Friday in the 193[illegible] edition of the "Swing Show."

A live 500-pound bear, "Big Boy," and "Bobby," billed as the dog with a human mind, will give variety to the show which has a cast of 40.

The Stevens brothers, who handle Big Boy, are one of the oldest acts of the kind in the country. Jim Stevens started the act about 28 years ago and now his two sons and a son-in-law are carrying on.

Big Boy is five years old and [illegible] Russian Brown bear. Long [illegible] feature with Ted Healy in Shubert productions, afterward Weaver Brothers and Elvira, the Stevens brothers have played in virtually every city in the United States.

In addition to the bear and dog act, the show features four standard acts, three specialty acts, an 11-piece girl swing band and a chorus.

Four Pictures Booked at Palace Next Week

"Tarzan Escapes" With Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan Head List

Four pictures have been booked for the week's program at the Palace, starting today with "Tarzan Escapes," and closing with the showing next Saturday and Sunday of a new comedy, "Adventure in Manhattan." A stage production, "Swing Show," will be presented Thursday and Friday.

"Tarzan Escapes" will be shown through Tuesday, followed by "Lady from Nowhere" on Wednesday and [illegible] picture "Wanted: Jane Turner" on Thursday and Friday.

Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan are again Tarzan and the heroine in the [illegible] Rice Burroughs adventure, which takes Tarzan and Miss O'Sullivan into the land of giant bats for thrilling excitement.

More than a year of extensive location shooting was required to give the atmosphere and backgrounds the details of authenticity.

Packed With Thrills

Battles with hostile African natives, an eerie encounter with giant bats, Tarzan's fight to release animals captured for menageries, the rescue of the white party from the wild Ganeloni tribesmen, the elephant stampede which saves the scouting party, the escape of Tarzan from a cage in which he has been imprisoned, native tortures, a plunge over a cliff, a perilous adventure in a crocodile-infested river—are a few of the thrill sequences.

Mary Astor is the featured player in the comedy melodrama "Lady from Nowhere."

Briefly it is the story of a manicurist who witnesses a gang-land murder and has to flee for her life. Her flight takes her to a small town where she meets a newspaper reporter. Learning that the killer is on her trail she hides out at the farm of the reporter's grandfather, posing as a runaway heiress. Matters become [illegible] when [illegible] with an eye on [illegible] the father of the real runaway heiress and the gang descend on the town. Charles Quigley of the New York stage, Rita LaRoy, Thurston Hall and Spencer Charters are in the supporting cast.

Hollywood [illegible] hard on Lee Tracy for [illegible] bit of fun in Mexico [illegible] months [illegible] "Wanted: Jane Turner" has been [illegible] on the [illegible] screen once more.

Blond Gloria Stuart, Patricia Wilder, Paul Guilfoyle and John M[illegible] supporting [illegible] Miss Stuart plays the first G-woman on the screen and Tracy is [illegible] wisecracking [illegible] bent on tracking down the [illegible] of a gang of mail robbers and murderers.

Jean Arthur's Reward

Jean Arthur's reward for her splendid performance in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town" was rewarded with a starring part in "Manhattan Adventure." She's an outstanding comedienne with an unusual [illegible]. Joel McCrea plays opposite Miss Arthur and in the supporting cast are Reginald Owen, Thomas Mitchell, Herman Bing and John Gallaudet.

"Adventure in Manhattan" re[illegible] escapades of a prominent detective story author who presumes to predict the theft of various art and jewel treasures. Furthermore he is assigned by a newspaper to write about these crimes to be in a series of special articles. It is then that the author, McCrea, meets Miss Arthur, star of a play still in production, and launches the adventures that carry the two thru every conceivable romantic and melodramatic complication possible to two young romantics on Broadway.

TENSE SCENE IN TARZAN FILM AT PALACE

KAY FRANCIS FILM AT OHIO

"Give Me Your Heart" Opens Week's Program Today Bill Is Varied

Successful on the stage as the play "Sweet Aloes," the picture version of a gripping love story, "Give Me Your Heart," starring Kay Francis, opened at the Ohio today.

Following "Give Me Your Heart" on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday will be a double bill of "The Captain's Kid," with May Robson, Sybil Jason and Guy Kibbee, and a Dick Foran singing western, "California Mail," both sponsored by Marion Post No. 3313, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

George Brent is Miss Francis' leading man and in supporting roles are Roland Young, Patrick Knowles, Henry Stephenson, Frieda Inescort, Helen Flint, Halliwell Hobbes and Zeffie Tilbury.

Miss Francis, a young English woman, and Knowles, son of an English lord, carry on a secret romance. Knowles is married to Miss Inescort, a semi-invalid, and knowing this Young, a genial playwright and novelist friend of Knowles and Miss Francis, tries to intervene. She reveals to Young that there is to be a child and he manages things so that she agrees to give up the child to the invalid wife of the man she loves. Heartbroken she goes to America and enroute meets Brent, a wealthy young American business man.

He falls in love with her and marries her on her own terms which do not include the story of her past nor her love. She tries to be a good wife but unstrung nerves find refuge only in a gay social life. Young meets her again and finds that the marriage is nearing grief. He sets about to plot their lives as he would a novel and succeeds in bringing them unexpectedly together with Knowles and his wife. A gripping climax brings eventual happiness to both couples.

A combination of pirate thrills, [illegible] philosophy, young love and [illegible] love, [illegible] tricksters and comedy is contained in "The Captain's Kid." Miss Robson, portraying a New England spinster, determines to bring up her two modern nieces according to [illegible] puritanical rules of her own childhood. Sybil Jason, talented child actress, plays the younger of the two children, a child ambition to sail the Seven Seas and abetted by an agreeable old salt and story teller, Kibbee. He and the child do sail away and discover a treasure chest and their adventures form the basis of the story, with romance between the elder sister played by Jane Bryan and Fred Lawrence giving another twist to the plot.

Another of a series of romantic western stories is the Dick Foran picture "California Mail," in which he is supported by Linda Perry, Edward Keane and Ben Hendricks.

The story is laid in the period that marks the end of the pony express riders and the coming of the stage coach when Indians still roamed the hills and prairies and [illegible] villains with organized gangs of white robbers.

Foran has the role of one of the last of the pony express riders who naturally turned to the new method of passenger transportation and mail carrying, the stage coach. Rivals in business are the Banton brothers, one of whom is also the suitor of the girl Foran loves.

Foran sings two melodious western songs, "Ridin' the Mail" and "Love Begins at Evening."

WANDERING LETTER ENDS TRAVELS HERE

Mailed in Oregon in 1932 It Finally Catches Up

A letter apparently afflicted with a bad case of wanderlust finally reached the addressee Miss Mary Dell Maze of Fountain street Monday after trekking about the country since Dec 22 1932 Mailed on that date at Portland Ore it touched port at Morgantown W Va and bore the blurred marks of other postoffices was returned to the sender two or three times and once was as close to its destination as Radnor O according to the postoffice markings

Each time the letter was returned the sender a close friend of Miss Maze added a bit more news and sent it forth again each time hoping to have some response It was returned to the sender the last time several days ago and on Dec 2 was again started Marion-ward this time bearing the query Little girl where are you?

Monarch Printing & Supply Co. Serves City 31 Years

Interior View of Monarch Supply Store Here

Above is an interior view of the Monarch Printing & Supply Co store on South Main street in the Masonic building The photograph gives an excellent idea on the attractive manner in which the store is arranged

STOCK LISTS MANY ITEMS

Visit to Store Will Solve Christmas Shopping Problem for Many.

With a record of 31 years in business in Marion the Monarch Printing & Supply Co is entering into a new Christmas season fully prepared to care for the needs of its customers whether they be for printing office supplies or Christmas presents

Officials of the company feel that at this season of the year it is particularly fitting that they say a word in appreciation of the support given the store and printing establishment on South Main street throughout its long years of service to the public The business was founded here in 1905

"We wish to express our appreciation of the way this community has supported us in our endeavor to serve the public in the way of printing and office supplies" they said

The word supplies should be elaborated upon as the stock of the store in the Masonic Temple building at Main and Church streets contains many items other than needs for office and business establishments

Solves Gift Problems

Many Marion persons will be able to solve their Christmas shopping problems by visiting the Monarch store Among the items in this line are children's drawing and etching sets a new item that has taken the country by storm and sold at very reasonable prices Pen and pencil sets also marked at attractive prices considering the high quality of the merchandise an entirely new line of bridge cards either plain or monogramed leather goods items including billfolds brief cases zipper ring portfolios and many other items too numerous to mention

An item that is attracting attention in the store at the present is the new Telechron electric clock for either home or office use

The Monarch store is showing a wide line of portable typewriters including Royal Underwood Corona and Remington Any of these machines will make excellent Christmas gifts for high school pupil college student teacher business man or woman who has considerable correspondence With the purchase of each portable the Monarch is giving its customers a new entertaining and instructive game [illegible] excellent for those who wish to learn the touch system of typing The game may be played by any person either young or old and while playing it teaches the touch system of typing

Wide Range of Items

Further explanation on the word supplies in connection with the name of the Monarch company gives a clear conception of the wide range of merchandise handled in the store Practically every item needed in the operation of a modern office is obtainable at the Monarch store and in addition many articles in use daily about the home For example there are filing cards for the office and bridge cards for the home desk blotters for office or home waste paper baskets suitable for either purpose globes of the world shelf paper for cupboards or closets stationery either plain or engraved wedding announcements and business cards diaries etc

Recently the Monarch store has been rearranged and officials of the company have extended their customers both new and old a cordial invitation to visit the store In making the changes the regular line of items carried has been greatly increased

"Won't you accept our cordial invitation to visit the store at any time" is the word of company officials "Come in and look around for we really believe we have a very pleasant surprise in store for you

"And of course may we extend you our best wishes for a merry Christmas and a happy and prosperous New Year"

Structural Strength Must Be Maintained in Cutting Walls

In the construction of new houses or in the modernization of houses already erected in which air conditioning or warm air heating equipment is to be installed there is always the serious problem of maintaining the structural strength of walls and partitions after the cutting of structural members required for the passage of the ducts through walls and partitions

But only too often important framing members are cut without regard to the stability of the house with the result that floor-sagging and widespread plastercracking will occur The usual practice has been to reconnect cut members after the ducts are in place with lightweight strap iron which at best is a very poor makeshift and does little to replace the structural strength destroyed by the cutting

Of course it is possible to frame around ducts with other wooden members called headers or to build up walls of extra thickness in order to allow the passage of ducts within the walls without cutting of the main structural members But, due to the expense of these two methods they are usually avoided

For these reasons the carpenter and the heating contractor will no doubt welcome with open arms a new development consisting of especially designed rigid steel ties which may be attached to structural members in such a way that ducts may pass through the ordinary 4 inch wall and yet its structural strength may be maintained. These ties are of such a nature that they will accommodate various sizes and spacings of the structural members and are very easy to install due to prepunching which provides for nailing to wooden members and for the attachment of lath and moldings

HOUSEWIVES FIND MARION FLOUR IDEAL

Chemical and Baking Tests Keep Product 'Right' At All Times

Housewives and bakeries in Marion and surrounding communities who are beginning to prepare the usual goodies of baked goods for the Christmas holidays will find the products of the Marion Milling Co of North Prospect street ideal for their purposes

Special flours for all baking purposes are prepared by the mill

That the mill's products are right is known definitely before a bag of flour leaves the plant Laboratory tests are constantly being run by an experienced chemist to determine the quality of the flour Then too another important test tells how it will work in the oven The same chemist also is an experienced baker In a model laboratory that also is a model kitchen he runs baking tests of every batch of flour that comes from the mill

Give Your Store Yule Present in Way of Neon Sign

With thoughts of Christmas filling the minds of everyone why not pause a moment and give a little attention to a Christmas present for your store or place of business?" This is the query of Cheney & Son Signs dealers in this area for neon signs

"Nothing could be more appropriate than to give your business a Christmas present" they say "And a neon sign not only will improve appearances but will attract attention that will bring to sales an increased business throughout the year It would be one Christmas present that would be a permanent improvement"

The Cheney sign shop builds its own signs from beginning to end and in addition operates a service department for neon signs of all types The shop is located on East Court street opposite the county jail

Proper Home Lighting Helps Reduce Mishaps

Proper maintenance and adequate lighting of the home are among the most effective means known of reducing the number of accidents fatal and otherwise in the United States

Last year more than 30 per cent of the 31 500 accidental deaths occurring in the United States took place in the supposed security of the home—more than twice the number of those taking place in all kinds of gainful employment A similar proportion of the 140 000 permanently disabling injuries and 4 600 000 temporary disabilities caused by accidents took place in the home The figures are those reported by the National Safety Council

A house adequately lighted with convenient fixtures and controlling switches affords protection against accident The substitution of modern electric wiring for the outmoded variety may prevent fires A sufficient number of electric outlets to care for dangling electric wires or those left lying on floors for the use of radios lamps and equipment may offset the possibility of dangerous falls

In finishing floors safeguarding against possible slipping and resultant dangerous accidents should be considered Steps and stairs well planned with railings or banisters may mean protection to life and limb

Stoves heating plants water heaters etc should not represent fire hazards and care must be taken to guard against burns and fire from these necessary household necessities

Every possible safeguard against accident in the home is well worth the money and effort expended

BUICK DELIVERIES SHOW RAPID RISE

FLINT Mich Domestic retail deliveries of the Buick Motor company hit an all-time record during the second ten days of November with 6 977 cars turned over to new owners in the United States

This was the highest [illegible] period on record according to W F Hufstader vice president and general sales manager and compared with [illegible] cars delivered during the first ten days of the month and 4 470 in the corresponding period of November a year ago

Christmas Greens.

ALMOST as old as Christmas itself is the custom of celebrating the Yuletide season by decking mantel, doorway and stair with mistletoe, holly and other greenery and lighting up the Christmas tree. Bringing home Christmas is the way our ancestors expressed it, for garlands of fir and ivy were supposed to bear a blessing into the home, carrying with them some of the kindly outdoor spirits that inhabited wood and field, thus spreading joy and friendship throughout the house. The greens that are closest to the traditions of the Christmas season are the holly, ivy, mistletoe and fir with the rosemary, laurel and bay not far behind. The most sacred of the Christmas greens is the holly or holy tree supposed to spread kindliness wherever it is found. According to legend the holly sprang to beauty under the feet of Christ when He first walked on earth. Another tradition concerning this particular green is that if the holly used to decorate the house is smooth the wife will rule the home for the year and if it is prickly the husband will rule.

* * *

Mistletoe

ONE tradition of the mistletoe is that it is supposed to be the all healer and to prevent misfortunes. The present-day practice of kissing beneath the mistletoe comes from an old custom with the men plucking a berry from the mistletoe each time a girl was kissed. According to tradition the mistletoe should never be thrown away but should be kept from year to year. Rosemary now obsolete as a Christmas green was once the most popular. In the 16th century this herb was grown in great abundance in almost every woman's garden and at Christmastide the gray green branches were cut to contrast with those of the holly and the ivy. The sweet perfume of rosemary was linked with friendship and remembrance and the plant was supposed to be offensive to evil spirits. The swaddling clothes of the Infant Christ were said to have been hung on a plant of the rosemary and on the flight to Egypt the flowers of rosemary were changed from white to purple when Mary placed her purple cloak on a bush of it. Before the Christmas tree became popular it was the custom in some parts of Europe to put trees such as the cherry or hawthorn into water or into pots so that they might bud and blossom at the New Year or Christmas. In Corinthia the young girls placed a cherry branch in wet sand on Dec 13 St Lucia's day. If the branch blossomed by Christmas their wishes would be fulfilled.

* * *

Legends

HELLEBORE or Christmas rose, a favorite of today, has a pretty legend attached to its name. It is told that on Christmas Eve a young girl tending sheep with her brothers followed the Star to the manger. Regretting she had no gift to bring the Child she returned to her flocks when a spirit appeared and waved a lily and the earth was suddenly white with hellebore. The girl plucked some of the blossoms and took them back to the stable where the Child reached out His hand for the exquisite blooms. The gypsies are said to burn ash at this time because they believe Christ was born in a field. According to their legend the holly, ivy and pine hid Him and so remain green while the ash and oak revealed where He was hiding and consequently stay dead all winter.

CONSTANT TALKING WEAKENS FARMER

By The Associated Press

OCALA Fla Dec 12—Howard Stillman grew weaker today at the end of a week of almost constant talking.

A brief nap yesterday gave physicians some hope but Stillman started talking again when he awakened.

Dr J L Chalker said there probably was an abnormal pressure on part of the 31 year old farmer's brain.

LEADERS VISIT TOWNSEND CLUB

Discuss National and State Questions at Meetings Here

Raymond J Jeffreys of Cleveland, Carl Newton of Upper Sandusky, recently appointed Eighth district supervisor, and Floyd J Smith state director of Columbus discussed questions of state and national interest to Townsend clubs at a meeting of Marion Townsend club No 1 last night at the Druids hall.

Mr Jeffreys gave the principal talk. He urged the members to support the congressmen indorsed by the Townsend clubs who were elected in November and to see to it that they voted favorably on Townsend measures. He designated as the principles of the Townsend plan the forced circulation of money and the old age pension. He referred to the famous Wright suit against Dr Townsend as a washout. The organization has a membership of 15 million in the United States he said.

Mr Smith discussed the active membership program and other state activities and Mr Newton discussed the work throughout the district.

The next meeting will be Jan 8 at which time the annual election of officers will be held. A program hour will include a play given by the members.

Prospect High's reign [at th]e county boys league [illegible] ended last night when Pleasant [illegible] edged the down county quintet 28 to 27 on the Prospect court. Claridon, another outstanding contender for the league honors, was toppled from the perfect column by suffering a 31 to [illegible] defeat at the hands of Green Camp in a game which went two overtime periods.

Kirkpatrick and Waldo share honors [illegible] Agosta 29 to 6 while Waldo was idle. [In] league [illegible] Caledonia girls, previously undefeated in the county conference, dropped last night's game before a spirited attack of the Morral team 24 to 10.

Games in the county last night brought the teams within one game of mid season. The Prospect-Pleasant and Claridon-Green Camp games were the most interesting and crucial contests in the [illegible] division.

Holliday forward of the Pleasant team was the hero of the conflict on the Prospect court. He topped the scoring column with five field goals and three fouls and turned in a fine defensive [per]formance. Akron U. Expelled from Ohio Conference at Stormy Meeting

Unprecedented Ouster Voted Following Controversy Over Eligibility of Football Players, Dean's Plea Ignored

By FRITZ HOWELL
By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O Dec 12—For the first time in 30 years representatives of the University of Akron were absent today as the coaches of the Ohio Athletic conference met to map their 1937 football schedules and set the dates for the spring sports events.

The Akron school was expelled from the conference last night at one of the most turbulent meetings the 34-year-old league has experienced. It was the first outright expulsion in the long history of a university with [illegible] to retain membership.

A vote of 3[illegible] to [illegible], each school having a vote, [illegible] the Zips from the league for violating the spirit and the letter of the league's rules in using seven football players who [had] been declared ineligible.

Dean Makes Plea

Despite a fervent plea by Dean Fred Ayer of Akron that expulsion [illegible] Akron [illegible] conference the faculty and athletic department representatives voted [illegible] throw Akron out of the [illegible] school which entered the loop in 1918.

Dean Ayer said that he as faculty representative of Akron never was notified of the ineligibility of the boys as required by the league by-laws that Akron's protest [illegible] under a 60-day rule was ignored in violation of the constitution depriving the university of its right of appeal.

President Ira [illegible] Wilson, Heidelberg faculty representative who engaged in a battle of words with Dean Ayer during the football season in which each represented his side of the argument through the press, ruled that Akron cannot be excused from its obligations just because no formal notice of the ineligibility of the players was given.

The vote followed with Akron getting its own two votes, one each from Baldwin-Wallace, Bowling Green, Findlay and [illegible] and two from Toledo University.

The conference made its ouster action retroactive by forfeiting Akron's 1936 football victories to the defeated teams, a move which many of the coaches construed as meaningless since the league does not recognize championships.

Division Plan Fails

Thomas [illegible] Ohio Northern's faculty representative suggested that the conference consider splitting into two divisions according to location or size and that the schools in each section play each other and the two leaders meet in a post season contest to decide the championship. Allen's protest [illegible] suggestion.

Dr [illegible] Nichols of Oberlin was elected secretary succeeding Dean D T Schoonover of Marietta who has served since 1911. The Big Six track meet was set for May 14-15 at Oberlin and the conference golf meet for May 14-15 at Wooster. Toledo University was granted the right to use freshmen on its varsity boxing team until the rules revising committee reports at the May meeting with a definition of conference-controlled sports and a new interpretation of the six semester rule.

During the argument as to whether Akron should be ousted J W Carmichael of Bowling Green State University said he believed such action too drastic. He cited that a year ago Toledo, Xavier, Case, John Carroll and Baldwin-Wallace violated the football practice starting date but that the resulting protests were acted on in a spirit of levity. He recalled that he for all teams the offenders had not been penalized but that the offending school had been banned from the spring track, swimming, tennis and golf events.

BUCKEYE FOOTBALL TO MEET

Special to The Star

COLUMBUS O Dec 12—Athletic directors, coaches and faculty representatives of the Buckeye conference will make up their 1937 spring sports and 1938 football schedules at a meeting here Sunday afternoon. Revision of conference rules also will be taken up.

The Truth

[illegible] abdication might not have come [illegible] at this time if there had been less [illegible] in the coverage of news [illegible] with Mrs. Simpson. The [illegible] press was first to tell it. The British press finally was forced to bring into the open details of a situation which had been concealed from most of its readers.

There are persons in this country and in England who are saying the story had better been kept under cover. They argue that here was a case in which revelation of truth was injurious.

The position they take is a precarious one because it entails acceptance of a principle which most of them would not accept in other circumstances. They do not really believe in suppression of information as a fixed rule.

In this era of easy communication the story which led to the British crisis could not have remained untold for very long. Continued suppression by the press, even had it been possible, could only have delayed the crisis which revelation has precipitated at this time. Anyone arguing that suppression of public information is feasible or even desirable betrays in himself a lack of sympathy with the processes of popular government.

No Christmas Present.

Application for a temporary injunction preventing the state auditor from paying members of the general assembly mileage expenses they never incurred strengthens the flagging spirits of Ohio taxpayers.

It's Christmas, the season of goodwill. Everybody is full of brotherly love for everybody else. The state now which helps its legislators who have worked hard wake up Christmas morning to find their stockings full of good things.

But the state isn't anxious to stuff mileage expenses for trips which never were taken into the stockings. Apparently that's where the representatives and senators overplayed their hand. They tried to get too much while they were a-gittin'. Of course they may get it yet, but at least they'll have to fight for it. It won't be a Christmas present.

Smog.

A fellow with a sore throat and a congested nose probably ferreted out the fact that in the 13th century London forbade use of coal within the city limits. In the 14th century one Londoner who insisted on his right to make a smudge with coal if he wanted to was hanged for his independence. The ancestors of London's later generations of smog breathers knew what fresh air smelled like.

It can't happen here.

Americans aren't interested in doing anything about smoke. There is no other conclusion to draw from their attitude. The Smoke Prevention association, a national organization, recently ascertained from 75 questionnaires that 16 cities cared nothing about smoke, 22 more were not interested in trying to do anything about it and the rest couldn't get anything done. Houses, not factories, incidentally, are the worst offenders, and householders are legion.

As we live and try to breathe! There's not much you can do about it, is there, except to go live in the country. When cities finally wake up to the fact that the smoke nuisance drives away taxpayers they will find something to do about it. Depend on that.

Supervisor Berry.

George L. Berry is coordinator for industrial cooperation in the United States. It is a broad title.

It has no exact meaning as yet. That is one reason the 1936 conference of representatives of industry, investors, labor and consumers is important. Maj. Berry, who called a similar meeting one year ago but with indifferent success, still hasn't found his place in the scheme of things.

If he has better luck this time Maj. Berry might emerge as a really important guiding influence in an era of national planning. That remains to be seen. In the meantime it is interesting to note that there has been material improvement in all lines of activity since December, 1935.

Apparently without the benefit of any great amount of officially supervised industrial cooperation the United States has been making headway. When the subject of NRA revival comes up for discussion in Maj. Berry's conference some of the participants no doubt will stress that fact, which to the economic planners seems all out of joint with their theory of what should be happening.

Radio and Public Opinion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 — Simultaneous [illegible] the announcement of the official [illegible] the last presidential election [illegible] from the [illegible] major [illegible] that the Republicans [illegible] than the [illegible] did [illegible].

[illegible] might be construed to [illegible] of the radio [illegible] as it is often [illegible]. If the Republicans spent more money on radio time than [illegible] it is also true that the effort did not pay them in the final [illegible] vote.

[illegible] a tendency [illegible] the power of the [illegible] nobody or an [illegible] the power of the radio was superior [illegible] in the last campaign. But [illegible] ignores the fact that no [illegible] such as [illegible] entirely [illegible] not [illegible] sentiment in the electorate.

Voice Is Big Advantage

It will be contended that President Roosevelt [illegible] better use of [illegible] Mr. [illegible].

The radio was [illegible] by the new deal long before the [illegible] conventions of last summer [illegible] time and facilities that the [illegible] did not have to pay for [illegible] the fireside chats almost [illegible] after the inauguration and [illegible] political addresses [illegible] extraordinary [illegible] livery of the [illegible] message to a night audience [illegible] tions. Likewise official [illegible] and low in the new deal were given time on the [illegible] three and a half years and while [illegible] offered to the Republicans [illegible] to make use of [illegible] the year 1936 [illegible] anything like [illegible] planned [illegible].

What was the effect of three and a half years of [illegible] appeal by the administration [illegible] by a short campaign [illegible] a few months at a time when the [illegible] to be so much of a bore that many people turned off their radios [illegible] altogether except for [illegible]?

The [illegible] revealed by the official [illegible] that a tremendous vote was cast and [illegible] some 27,700,000 persons were influenced in one direction and 16,600,000 in another. It might be interesting to note [illegible] four years ago Mr. [illegible] had 22,800,000 and his opponent [illegible]. The total increase in the voting strength of the country in the two major parties was 5,800,000.

Who Got Them Out?

Who [illegible] the 5,800,000? Of this number the Republicans got only 800,000 and the [illegible] about 4,000,000. There was a [illegible] vote movement on in both parties and [illegible] may account for the fact that 5,800,000 more votes were registered than [illegible] but the chances are that effective political organization work by the leaders [illegible] in the precincts of the nation did the trick.

[illegible] American politics the [illegible] work done by the persons in the local communities is overlooked and some extraneous [illegible] is assigned to explain the outcome of an election. Irrespective of the influence of the radio and irrespective of the influence of the press both of which must have played a part in lining up 16,600,000 [illegible] for one candidate and 27,700,000 for Mr. Roosevelt, wise political leaders will probably say that the biggest [illegible] influence in the election was [illegible] organization for the last three [illegible].

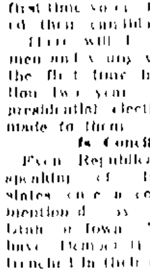
G. O. P. Spotlight On Hamilton

BY BYRON PRICE

Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington

A[illegible] chief [illegible] of the Republican national committee at its meeting in Chicago is to accept or reject the [illegible] resignation of Chairman John D. M. Hamilton.

The committee's action will be weighed carefully in many quarters—Democratic as well as Republican—as a guide to future policy. What, if anything, will be done to placate the western progressives, many of whom have [illegible] their Republican labels and openly espoused the cause of Mr. Roosevelt?



JOHN HAMILTON

Some of these progressives have said candidly that the old guard found it expedient to merge itself temporarily with the [illegible] and had no intention of permitting it [illegible] to be one [illegible] permanently. Nothing has been said since the election to indicate they have changed their minds.

Democrats assert the first time voters for the most part supported their candidates in November.

There will be [illegible] millions of young men and women eligible to vote for the first time in the congressional election two years hence and in the next presidential election. What appeal is to made to them?

Is Coalition Possible?

Even Republicans are chary now in speaking of traditionally Republican states, once a common phrase when one mentioned Pennsylvania, Michigan, Utah or Iowa. Most of these states now have Democratic governors [illegible] entrenched in their capitols, Democratic senators and representatives in Washington. Only four Republican governors remain, and three of these are in New England.

In 1932 the reason advanced for this Democratic sweep was that depression spite was being taken out on incumbent Republicans. But [illegible] this explanation [illegible] hold good in 1936.

Promises are poor table fare for politicians with Republican organizations to maintain. The Democrats have most of the jobs and it is two years before there will be another election. That makes the task before the national committeemen doubly difficult. They must wage their battle empty handed.

Many members of the committee, however, are veterans who have been battered by [illegible] at the polls before.

But can this group lead the way to a coalition with the western progressives? Certainly that is a question the Chicago conference must consider carefully.

Senators Have Big Role

Sometimes there is an advantage in rushing an opponent off his feet. That would seem to be Mr. Hamilton's strategy in case he wants to head off old guard opposition. He has made the first move, struck quickly and without warning and left little time for any opposing group to consolidate its forces.

Should the committee give Mr. Hamilton a vote of confidence he intends to ask [illegible] for approval of a reorganization plan so far undisclosed.

But it can be guessed that in any such plan the little band of Republican senators left in Washington will play an important role. They are the logical mouthpiece of any criticism the party may have of the Roosevelt policies.

[illegible] it might well be that the Republican party will wish to turn to one of these men, Vandenberg, Steiwer and Bridges among others, for its nominee four years hence. Any way you figure it this group emerges as the logical spearhead of the opposition attack henceforth.

Uncle Sam's Baby

BY ELIOT JONES

Professor of Transportation and Public Utilities, Stanford University

THE will of Jesse I. Straus, who died early in October, has recently been filed and it discloses some interesting information. Mr. Straus, who had been president for many years of R. H. Macy & Co., a big department store in New York City, was appointed ambassador to France by President Roosevelt in March 1933 and he continued to serve in that capacity until failing health compelled his resignation last August.

In 1933 Mr. Straus made a will in which he bequeathed thousands of shares of stock of R. H. Macy & Co. to a number of charitable, philanthropic and educational institutions. These institutions included an Association for the Blind, a sanitarium, a Presbyterian hospital, the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies, the Catholic Charities, Harvard university, Tuskegee Institute, a museum of art, a [illegible] pension fund and a fire department relief fund. These bequests merely continued the policy of generous support of humanitarian causes which Mr. Straus had followed during his lifetime.

Subsequent to the making of his will Mr. Straus attached a codicil to it revoking all of these bequests. His reasons for doing so are significant. In the codicil Mr. Straus explained that the charitable bequests were revoked because of the federal and state estate tax laws which impose such heavy tax burdens upon estates as to lead, under certain conditions, to financial losses from the untimely sale and liquidation of the assets of estates to provide for the payment of taxes.

This modification of Mr. Straus' will calls attention to the difficulties that are being experienced and that will probably be experienced even more in the future by charitable, philanthropic and educational institutions. These institutions may expect because of heavier taxes to receive less in the way of endowment funds.

Moreover, such invested funds as they have (and receive in the future) will provide less in the way of income. Their funds are invested largely in bonds, and because of the low interest rates current, U. S. bonds bearing rates of interest higher than the market rate are steadily being retired. This forces the institutions in reinvesting their funds to accept the lower market rate, which means a reduced income available to carry on their humanitarian projects. The government favors a low rate of interest because this reduces the cost to it of the vast sums that it is currently spending, but the effect on endowed institutions is exceedingly serious.

Another difficulty with which charitable, philanthropic and educational institutions have to contend is the higher prices of commodities and services. With less money earning a lower rate of interest they are confronted with rising costs of materials and supplies. Since 1933, in which year Mr. Straus made his will, the index number of the department of labor (wholesale prices) has gone up more than 20 per cent.

Should these menacing conditions become worse—and the prospects are that taxes will increase and prices will continue to rise—many endowed institutions may be forced to drop their problems on the government's door step.

Different Treatment Needed

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12 — A [illegible] economic mechanic around the White House sized up the situation now confronting the President in the right way.

President Roosevelt spent his first four years acting as a sick horse starter. He will spend the next four trying to keep it from running away. The important thing about that is the second purpose requires an exactly opposite technique from the first. You operate at a different end of the horse.

The method used for getting the beast going are inflation, spending, credit expansion, an unbalanced budget, seizure and distribution of corporate earnings, seizure of big incomes and distribution of them to the needy, artificial stimulations to develop purchasing power.

But the generally known method of dealing with a runaway calls for deflation, contraction of spending and credit, a balanced budget and abstinence from stimulants.

If these fundamentals are desirable, it is now said you are going to see an entirely different New Deal in the next four years.

Steps

The experts who plan ahead are already discussing what can be done.

The first thing would naturally be to pass around the word that the immediate outlook is none too good, that prices are going too high and may cause reaction.

This tends to hold things down. It has already been started. The new deal news writers are beginning to speculate about it. Official spokesmen are taking it up.

Next you can hike the requirements on banks so they will have to keep a large amount of cash in reserve and can not lend it out. This also has been done. It will be done again next month.

Then you can move to limit the influx of foreign capital into this country from war frightened Europe and cut down that stimulant to our markets. Mr. Roosevelt has talked about this. Steps will be taken very soon.

Powers

These preliminary steps are the known ones.

There are others which have not been mentioned in public. They can move to increase interest rates through the Federal Reserve Board and treasury policy. They can enlarge Mr. Morgenthau's authority over the stabilization fund so he can manipulate it in an anti-inflationary way. They can buy fewer government bonds in the open market and thus put out less cash. They can start to cut down gradually on government spending and move toward a balancing of the budget.

All these and some other minor technical steps have been discussed and perhaps these will eventually be taken.

A significant thing about them is that virtually no new legislation would be needed to carry them out. A technical amendment might have to be adopted by congress to enlarge Mr. Morgenthau's stabilization powers and the rate of spending of course will be partly determined by congress. But no new big legislation is being discussed at this time.

Determination

The big question is how effective these moves will be. Nobody knows. They have never been tried. Consequently no one can possibly have any provable notion of how much they will accomplish.

Their application requires very careful handling because the purpose is not to stop the progress of the old horse but to moderate his gait so he will not again exhaust himself and collapse.

It is true the government could not handle him before and the reins now are not as strong as they might be. But government has learned a lot in the last seven years. It is alert and knowing.

All of the fellows here in charge of thinking for the new deal are not Tugwells. They have found out more about political economics in the last four years than government officials [illegible] learn in a lifetime. They have the fresh experience in their minds of what happened before.

It is anybody's guess how successful they will be. The main thing is they are determined.

Comforting, but Hard to Believe

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 12 — There was a comforting book for neurotics recently—a volume by a physician of standing hailing neuroticism as something dandy [illegible] which the victim should dance in the streets. He believes a neurosis has a refining process that lifts one out of the humdrums.

He would have us believe that neurotics flower the world with genius. As one of the twittery guild I'd like to believe his thesis. But frankly I think it largely poppycock. There's nothing neurotic about Lindbergh or Marconi. Nor was Abe Lincoln so bedeviled.

It is absurd to say neurotics have not achieved, for many have despite hypochondriacal handicaps. But the boys and girls who salvage the most joy out of living and largely guide the destinies of important enterprises are without nerves. They are Butterworth's Rotarians with their feet on the ground.

Claustrophobia, agoraphobia and other jitters jets are largely the result of self-coddling. Our sturdy ancestors did not have them because they were too busy swinging axes to build a cabin in the clearing. And plucking cockle burrs out of their hair.

An accomplished gourmet—his name is known in every part of the land—recently regaled me with the story of how he met his Waterloo in gastronomics. He asked that he be nameless but here are the details. It was in the yonder days when for some unremembered reason the Grand Duke Boris of Russia honored America with his presence. Boris was the musical comedy type of Duke whose leit motif was the best of food, wine and ladies.

* * *

On his New York visit a Russian Baron in diplomatic service decided to give a [illegible] breakfast for the ducal visitor and invited two scores of gourmandizing gentlemen whose patron saint was Brillat-Savarin. My friend, a two-fisted eater in those days, was on the list and on this particular morning partook of nothing in the way of home breakfast but a nibble of toast and a sip of coffee. Then to be in robust trim he left early and heeled off several brisk miles enroute to the Baron's apartment.

* * *

Stacked on the tables in tantalizing array was every kind of cold food ingenuity of cuisine through the years produced. Beluga caviar, lobsters, crabs, shrimps, anchovies, sardines, Westphalia and Virginia hams and all kinds of sausages, cold meats and cold fowls—mention anything served cold and it was there! There were red wines and white from Spain, Portugal and Italy, wines of the Rhine, the Rhone, the Moselle and the Saar, Bordeaux and Burgundies and vintage champagne of every brand. There were whiskies, cordials, brandies, Arrack, Danziger gold wasser, Kummel, Kirsch, Mirabel, Armagnac and cognac, fine champagne—and, but certainly, mesdames et messieurs, the real Napoleon cognac in the dusty bottles just as they lay in the ancient cellars at Malmaison.

* * *

My bewildered friend, unacquainted with Russian custom, locked arms with John Drew, the actor, and they started a tour of the circuit—neglecting no dish, avoiding no bottle. More than a half hour with the world suddenly aureoling into heavenly tints slipped by when the Baron clapped for attention. Breakfast will now be served across the hall. My friend was asked to escort the Grand Duke to a table where a menu of a dozen courses each with its particular wine was served. Awk!

* * *

I know how it is for a lusty appetite to come to a full and sudden stop. We had a Corsican cook in a housekeeping experiment in Paris, a virago whose thieving resulted in her removal by gendarmes. Our meat tasted different. One morning going down town in a taxi I saw our cuisiniere coming out of a red fronted shop with a parcel. I glanced up and over the door was the gilt horse's head of the Boucherie Chevaline. And did I feel floaty. She had been feeding us horse-meat. For four weeks I became a vegetarian. Indeed the bloom has never quite returned to my cheeks.

DAIRY RATIONS DISCUSSED HERE

Marion County Farmers Hear Talk by Prof. Blackman of Ohio State

"If your cow loses its appetite it probably has a deficiency of phosphorus in its diet" Prof C L Blackman of the department of animal husbandry of Ohio State university told a group of Marion county dairymen and stockmen last night. He spoke at the office of County Agent S L Anderson in the third of a series of four lectures sponsored by Mr Anderson.

Lime phosphorus iodine and [illegible] are the only minerals likely to be needed beyond what is contained in the average dairy cow ration he said. If a good quality alfalfa or clover hay is fed the lime and phosphorus will be supplied in sufficient quantity. Bran linseed oil meal or cottonseed meal are good sources of phosphorus.

Lack of iodine often causes goiter in calves Prof Blackman said and the cheapest source of iodine is the drug store where potassium and calcium iodine may be purchased. One ounce should be added to 10 pounds of salt mixed thoroughly and added to another 90 pounds of salt making 100 pounds of iodized salt.

Use of alfalfa on the dairy farm was urged by Prof Blackman who pointed out it is possible to produce three crops a year for several years with only one seeding and plowing. Soy beans make an equally good hay but are more expensive and the ground must be plowed for each crop he said. They make a good emergency crop and may be planted as late as June 1 for a crop the same year.

Prof Blackman defined a balanced ration as one containing proper amounts of sugar starch and fat for body heat the proper amount of protein for tissue building and milk production. Insufficient protein will limit milk production and too much will be merely wasted he said.

The percentage of protein in the grain mixture is in proportion to the protein in the hay used. With alfalfa hay about 10 or 11 per cent extra protein is needed with mixed hay about 16 per cent with timothy and corn stover as the roughage about 18 or 20 per cent of extra protein is [illegible]

[illegible] rations [illegible] were as follows [illegible] Jerseys and Guernseys should produce [illegible] pounds of milk daily without grain and should [illegible] one pound of grain for each two pounds of milk produced over 12.

Holsteins and Brown Swiss should produce 20 pounds of milk daily without grain and should receive a pound of grain for each two and a half pounds of milk produced over [illegible]

[illegible] to the main part [illegible] silage he said. As production increases silage should be cut down in the ration and the amount of hay increased.

Next Friday night Prof Blackman will discuss diseases of dairy cattle mastitis garget and contagious abortion. The meeting will be held at 8 p m in the office of Mr Anderson. R W Pifer assistant farm agent is assisting in the meetings.

HARDING VARSITY LOSES TO DELAWARE

Delaware High's band gave a touch of color to the encounter played in the new Willis gymnasium. Fans of both teams were slightly disgruntled by the action of officials in calling innumerable foul violations. During the first period alone 11 fouls were called. Later in the contest two players Fetter of Harding and VanDivort of Delaware were banished from the game for committing four personal fouls. Two other Willis High cagers Wyss and Lackey each had three fouls called against them.

Scoring opened with Johnny Williams tossing a free throw for Harding and Wintermute adding two points on an action shot from the side of the court. Balser's basket and Herriott's foul tied the count but Williams tallied again from the free throw lane to give Marion a 4 to 3 lead. Harding gained three points on Fetter's sucker shot and Wintermute's free throw but exchanged scoring as Balser made two points and Herriott added one all from the foul line. Sharrock dumped in a basket as the quarter ended to give Marion a 9-6 lead.

13-10 at Half

After Herriott and Lackey made free throws to cut Marion's lead to a single point Wiant and Sharrock came through with field goals to put Marion out in front 13 to 8. Lackey's basket for Delaware finished the half with the score 13 to 10. Willis center opened the third period with a successful shot from the foul line but Wiant and Wintermute retaliated for Harding with perfect shots from the field.

Balser Willis letterman and forward rolled a sucker shot through the hoop but a foul by Fetter and Wiant's basket from the center of the floor gave Marion a 20 to 13 lead. Vandivort added a field goal for Willis. Sharrock regained one point from the free throw lane and the teams traded points as Sharrock tossed a free throw for Harding and Harris duplicated for Delaware. Phelps and Wintermute added field goals for Harding, the later on a neat follow in shot after an unsuccessful free throw to finish the third period with Marion leading 25 to 16.

Delaware opened its scoring spurt early in the final stanza with Harris registering two goals and Wyss one cutting Marion's lead to 25-22. With less than five minutes to play Delaware cagers abandoned all caution and put on a concerted scoring drive. Wooley registered a goal for Marion but Herriott duplicated for Willis dribbling to the basket from the tip-off for a sucker shot. Sharrock's free throw gave Marion a 28 to 24 advantage and in rapid succession Harris and Herriott dumped in a basket each to tie the count at 28-28. The score was tied with two minutes remaining in the regulation contest but neither team was able to score in the length of time.

It was early in the overtime period that Joe Harris fouled by Carl Roop substitute Harding center stepped to the foul line to toss what became the deciding point. Another free throw which might have again tied the score rolled off the hoop after it left the hands of Bill Decker substitute Harding guard. The box score follows:

MARYSVILLE DAMAGE TRIAL IS RECESSED

Marion Engineer First Witness in Suit of Marion Resident

Trial of the $10,000 damage suit of Miss Emily Wolfel of Marion against Union county commissioners resulting from a traffic mishap that proved fatal to the Marion resident was adjourned to Monday at the close of the second day's session yesterday.

Questioning of the first witness Vern Dutton civil engineer of Marion was not completed when the afternoon session ended. Dutton exhibited a plat of the scene of the accident and testified regarding measurements in support of Miss Wolfel's contention the automobile in which she was riding was thrown into a bridge abutment by a hole in the paving near the end of the bridge. She contends the commissioners were negligent in failing to keep the road in repair.

The jury was taken to the scene of the accident near Raymond before taking of testimony was begun. A Madison county jury completed at noon yesterday is hearing the testimony.

Miss Wolfel's suit is one of six brought against the commissioners as a result of the accident. Damages totaling more than $[illegible] are sought.

SYNOPSIS: Dark handsome Philip Page buys the Warren Courier and campaigns for better living conditions backing the workmen of the Morris mill in their fight for better houses. He is assisted by Sally Warren the attractive society editor who she admires. Sally is a house guest at the home of wealthy Mary Morris who pursues Philip despite her father's battle with him. Giles Benton a new arrival in the employ of Morris takes Sally for a drive. On returning they glimpse at the gate a man in work clothes who resembles McDonald a watchman will is [illegible] suspected of burning Morris theater.

CHAPTER 30
The Truth About Benton

"DO you know that fellow?" demanded Giles as the man in work clothes disappeared in the dark.

"No," said Sally. She could not explain what prompted the lie, perhaps some feeling of uncertainty, but she had really recognized McDonald.

"He's the night watchman," said Giles. "I've talked to him."

Perhaps he came to see the night watchman, said Sally hopefully. If the man was really McDonald then he certainly had [illegible] legitimate reason for being at the Morris home. But what could he want there at midnight? If he had come to see Sally he would hardly have come at that hour or would he have retreated so quietly at sight of the car.

Giles Benton left Sally at the front door. "I'm going to find the night watchman," he said. "Morris has him around to keep just such fellows as that out of the grounds. He'll have to do some explaining if the fellow wasn't a friend of his."

Giles spoke with such authority that one would have thought Mr Morris had delegated to him the power of instructing the servants. Sally went into the library to wait for Giles' return. It was not long in coming.

"The night watchman was having a bottle of beer in the kitchen," he said grimly. "If there's another threatening letter for Morris perhaps we'll know who left it."

"But surely the blackmail letters are not left on the estate," said Sally. "I thought they came through the mail."

"They did at first," said Giles. "But the last one was left here in the library. No one knows how."

Sally [illegible] the library [illegible] for [illegible] she had lighted several [illegible] fluttering [illegible] little. She was glad when Mary and Bob Dawes arrived. Mary listened with wide eyes to Giles' story of the figure they had seen skulking in the driveway.

"Why it's like a detective story," she exclaimed. "Let's turn on all the lights and watch for a letter with a skull and crossbones on it."

With Mary in the lead they searched the big house for any sign that the man in the driveway had entered. To Sally's relief they found nothing. The search ended with a raid on the ice box.

A Call From Philip

Three uneventful days passed with Philip still away. On the third evening as Sally was having coffee on the terrace with Mary and Giles Benton a telephone call came for Sally.

"Sally?" She recognized Philip's voice with a feeling of glad relief. There were so many things she had to tell him—things that puzzled her.

"I'm so glad you've come," Sally could not keep the relief out of her voice.

"And I'm glad to have some other welcome than the stack of mail on my desk," said Philip. "Can you come to the office for a while?"

"Of course. I'll be down in a jiffy." Sally ran out happily to speak to Mary. "I've got to go to the office. Business."

"Philip Page is back in town then," said Mary eagerly.

"Yes. He's probably got a dozen letters for me to do tonight."

"I'll run you down to the office," Giles Benton offered. Sally said she would walk but he insisted on taking her.

"Then Page is a hard taskmaster," said Giles, "and can't afford to pay good salaries."

"He pays enough," said Sally. "Everybody in the office would work for him no matter how little he could pay."

"He must be a remarkable man to inspire such loyalty," said Giles. As Sally got out of the car he said in his usual smooth voice, "How about lunch with me tomorrow [illegible] you?"

"I may not have but half an hour," said Sally.

"Mr Page does allow you a little time for lunch though."

Sally could not bring herself to be ungracious to Giles and she was anxious to see Philip.

"I was only warning you that I can't have lunch in the leisurely style Mary has it. But if you'll stop for me at one—"

"I'll be delighted," said Giles.

Sally found Philip at his desk which was in riotous disorder. He looked up with a smile as she came in.

"It's good of you to give up your evening," said Philip. "You're looking better too. The atmosphere at the Morris house must agree with you."

"I'm living in the lap of luxury," [illegible] biggest Sally "and I'm getting ideas that have no place in the head of a working girl."

"Are you?" asked Philip. "I hope not. I rather like—working girls."

Sally looking at him closely thought he seemed very tired and worn. He had not spared himself since he came to Warrenton.

"What shall I do?" she demanded. "I came to work."

"First—tell me about McDonald."

"He wouldn't talk to me," said Sally. "Mary is sick and all I could do was send them some [illegible] McDonald wants to see [illegible]"

"McDonald's coming here tonight," said Philip. "Is there anything—has anything happened I should know about?"

Sally told him of the evening when she and Giles Benton had surprised McDonald in the Morris driveway.

"I can't be sure it was McDonald," she added. "But I think [illegible] was. Why was he there?"

[illegible] to thank Mary [illegible] to Mary—[illegible]

[illegible] Philip. "He might [illegible] you?"

[illegible]

[illegible] Don't mention [illegible] I have a hunch [illegible] Perhaps he'll tell us [illegible] Philip leaned [illegible] at her keenly [illegible] Giles Benton [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] Philip sat back [illegible] played with a [illegible]

[illegible] information [illegible] Sally [illegible]

[illegible] Sally. She clasped her hands to [illegible] and sat up very straight [illegible] her fears finished [illegible] eyes bright [illegible] Philip could not help thinking [illegible] a little girl who had been warned that something very [illegible] was about to [illegible] confided to her.

He's An Industrial Spy

[illegible] of my business these last three days has been to find out something about Giles Benton said Philip.

But he's the guest of Mr Morris. He's an efficiency expert Mary says.

Benton is a very highly paid detective said Philip deliberately. Mr Morris [illegible] him from [illegible] agency that furnishes spies to big industries.

"But why?" Sally was still unbelieving.

Morris wants to find out who [illegible] threatening letters [illegible] workmen [illegible] anxious to find whoever it is that has been sending him threats. He believes that the person who set the fire is also [illegible] the Palace theater.

But [illegible] Giles Benton lives at the house as a guest, Sally said.

He spends half the day in the factory where he is studying ways of improving Mr Morris' methods.

Before he came to the Morris house as a guest said Philip he stayed for several weeks at the boarding house run by Mrs Phipps on the edge of Millville. When he lived there he was a machinist out of a job.

How do you know all this? demanded Sally. Surely there was some mistake. The fastidious Giles Benton could never have lived in Mrs Phipps' boarding house.

I did some investigating on my own said Philip and I have some friends who are a great help. Of course, Benton doesn't work alone. He's got at least one other person helping him here.

"If that's true" said Sally slowly "it explains at least two things he said to me."

"What were they?"

"He said that you had mortgaged your house and he said that the man who set fire to the Palace theater would soon be known and punished."

"The first thing is true enough" said Philip. "Your father could have given you that information. The second shows that Giles Benton has nearly completed what he came here to do."

"But what does it all mean?" It doesn't fit together.

"It means that Mr Morris will go to any lengths to protect his interests" said Philip. "It means that he will convict some working man of burning his theater, that he will make an example of that man and discredit the whole workmen's alliance that asked him for better houses and more pay. Mr Morris means for things to stay as they are in Warrenton and he has no scruples about driving me out because I stand for change."

Sally's head was in a whirl. She caught at the one solid spot in the whirl of it—Philip. She believed in Philip's integrity.

"I don't understand yet" she said "but I believe you. I—I trust you to the ends of the earth."

Philip's eyes lighted. "That's the [illegible] thing on earth I need [illegible]" he said.

McDonald tells how he was connected with the Palace theater fire Monday.

Married Comrades

Grimby's Revelations About Watchers on Hill Excite Harry Underwood

HARRY UNDERWOOD possesses a remarkable example of [illegible] poker face when he chooses to set the [illegible] of his handsome visage But he is old and experienced enough in his game to permit himself a relaxing of his caution [illegible] a natural show of excitement upon the receipt of a startling piece of news provided every [illegible] within [illegible] hearing of [illegible] be trusted

As he bent toward his wounded comrade [illegible] it was patent that such a moment of [illegible] relaxation was upon him His eyes were gleaming his cheeks held the florid tinge of excitement and every line of him was tense That the grotesque words "Helping the Grand Mikia of Muk with his clean-up" meant something very definite to Harry Underwood [illegible] have been apparent to a child

[illegible] let these men [illegible] he said with [illegible] ing [illegible] I don't need to [illegible] These were [illegible]

Recalls His Last

Grimby [illegible] and Allen Drake [illegible] the [illegible] visit back to [illegible]

[illegible] there was no [illegible] the usual [illegible] of this new [illegible] development in the mystery [illegible] enmeshed us

Harry Underwood drummed the fingers of his right hand upon the back of his clenched left fist for a few seconds that seemed [illegible] to the rest of us and then [illegible] each of [illegible] faces in turn with his keen eyes

[illegible] here he said slowly that this ridiculous combination of [illegible] gibberish has [illegible] me out of [illegible] years growth

He hesitated and then went on with little pause between his words

It is [illegible] to [illegible] that for many years I held a high place in the ranks of [illegible] as [illegible] Internationalist agitator

A swift [illegible] the big [illegible] With [illegible] he [illegible]

[illegible] lying from the gunshot [illegible]

[illegible] the rolls of the [illegible] whose ruler he [illegible] [illegible] had [illegible] him to his former place in life [illegible]

Until the appearance of the marauder on the balcony who had attempted to knife him his identity as a one-time member of their councils had not been suspected by his former associates Indeed it had been his belief and ours that the government activities invoked by his agency had cut out that particular cancer in the body politic

But the discovery of the midnight intruder had made us realize that like its physical counterpart the malignant growth had unsuspected tentacles

But he was speaking again and I came swiftly back to attention

"The particular cobra who was once called by that fantastic name is dead I saw him die he said and if he had uttered the words 'I killed him' he could not have signified his meaning more plainly

"When his spine broke" he went on grimly "the backbone of his organization was broken but if this spiel means anything somebody else has gathered a few of the [illegible] together and built up a new gang Harry [illegible] spill the rest of your story pronto We may have work on hand"
